Adolescent Reading Intervention for Grades 5–12,
A Third Quest Supplement

LEARN TO TEACH THE PROGRAM WITH FIDELITY

This explicit reading intervention employs scientifically based reading research in a motivating context. Students systematically work on Word Study exercises (rebuilding foundational reading skills), building fluency, engaging in building sophisticated vocabulary, narrative and informational passage reading, and comprehension building.

SESSION AND REGISTRATION INFO.

One 3-hour session on May 17 from 8:30 am to 11:45 am Pacific (11:30 am to 2:45 pm Eastern)
Registration includes all student materials for one student, Program Overview, sample pages from Coach's Manual.

LIVE VIA ZOOM

Marilyn will meet with attendees via Zoom. You will:

- Learn about programming and rationale
- Implementation options
- Teaching the program and cheerleading
- Problem solving with internal progress monitoring

NOTE: Training will not be recorded, so please plan to attend the live meeting.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Educators—teachers, specialists, instructional assistants, literacy coaches, and administrators—who are working to treat/remediate reading deficits

RESULTS ARE PALPABLE AND MEASURABLE

“My son always checked out books, but they stayed in his backpack. Now he reads them!” —Parent, PA

Student Logbook, Coach's Manual, Video Lessons

RESEARCH SNAPSHOT

From the most recent meta-analysis of tutoring research: “PreK–12 tutoring interventions—defined here as one-on-one or small group instructional programs—rank among the most widespread, versatile, and potentially transformative instruments in today’s educational toolkit” (Nickow, Oreopoulos, & Quan, 2020).
